Public Policy Program

GRIPS

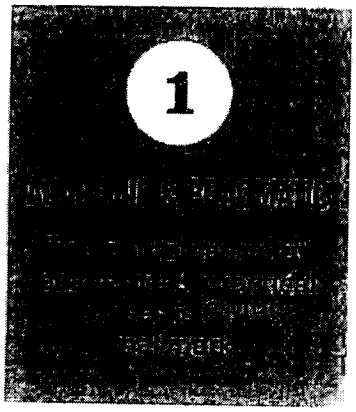

NATIONAL GRADUATE INSTITUTE FOR POLICY STUDIES

The Public Policy Program aims to educate leaders, public managers, and policy analysts in the policy tools needed for efficient governance.

The one-year program (MP1) equips mid-career managers and leaders with the fundamental skills and knowledge needed to be effective managers in the public sector. Students develop familiarity with all phases of the policy cycle. They are required to write a policy report as partial fulfilment of the degree of Master of Public Policy or Master of Public Administration.

The two-year program (MP2) provides pre- and early-career professionals and staff members with the technical skills needed to be professional policy analysts. The program provides a strong platform for advanced research (including doctoral studies). Students are required to write a master's thesis as partial fulfilment of the degree of Master of Arts in Public Policy.

2016-2017

Gateway to Global Leadership

Message from the President

The National Graduate Institute for Policy Studies (GRIPS) conducts policy research related to the current affairs of Japan and the world and provides graduate education in advanced policy studies designed primarily for mid-career administrative and government officials from Japan and other countries. Students benefit from high-quality instruction in economics, political science, public administration, international relations, engineering, and other subjects and from the examination of selected case studies reflecting the experience of Japan and other Asian countries in the course of modernization and rapid economic growth.
I hope that you will choose to come to GRIPS and seize the opportunity to engage in friendly competition with people who, like you, will go on to be future leaders.

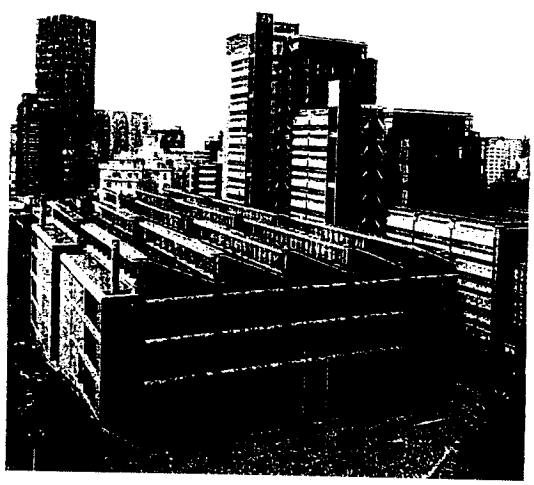

Akihiko Tanaka

Why GRIPS?

- Select from a wide range of advanced degree options and specialize in an area that interests you
- Combine discipline-specific learning with advanced training in leadership, interdisciplinary cooperation, and effective management
- Study in English, learning from world-class academics and leading policy makers
- Network and liaise worldwide with over 4,000 distinguished alumni involved in policy making
- Engage with a richly diverse student body and faculty

Brief History

In 1977, the Graduate School of Policy Science (GSPS) was established at Saitama University to promote interdisciplinary policy research and education. In 1997, GRIPS succeeded GSPS to become an independent national graduate university with the mandate to promote high-level policy research and respond to various domestic and international needs by drawing on international intellectual cooperation.

Target Students

- Mid-career public officials with strong leadership and managerial potential
- Individuals with strong academic capabilities and the desire to become professional policy analysts or to pursue an academic career

Admissions

Deadlines

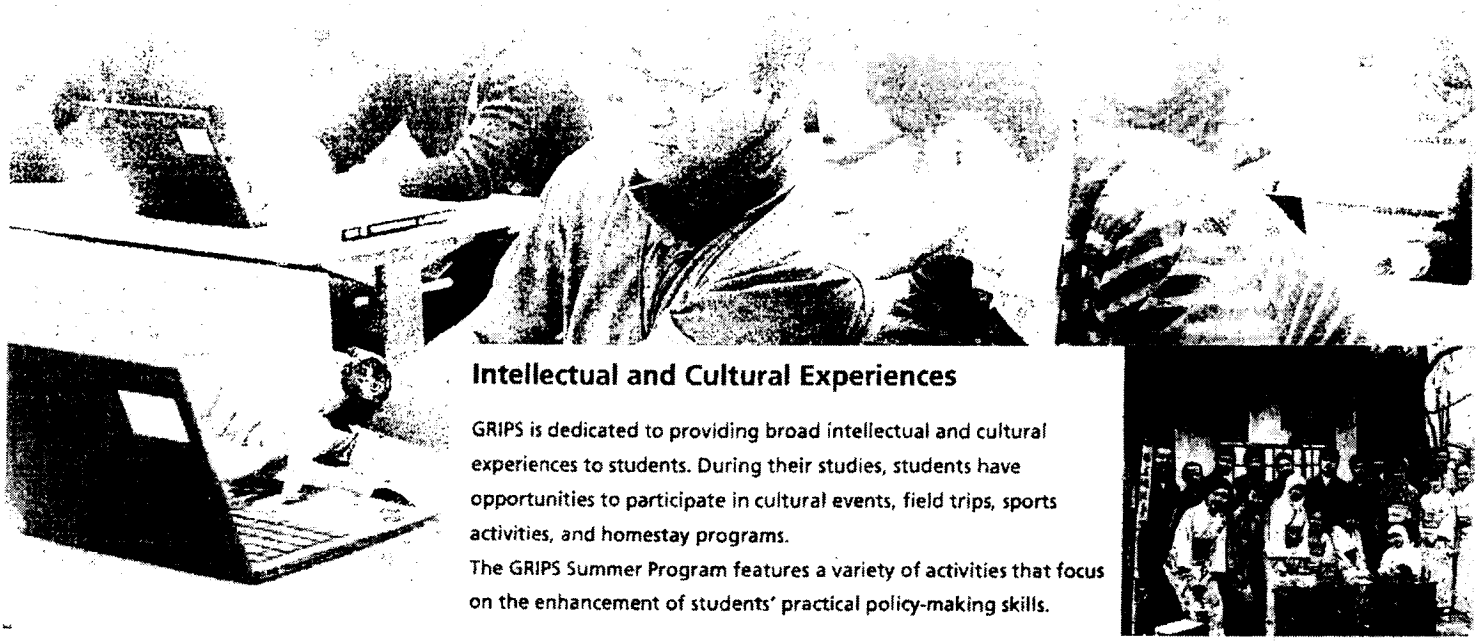

Admission is competitive and involves careful, holistic consideration of each candidate through both document screening and interviews. For candidates who wish to be considered for a scholarship allocated through GRIPS, the application deadline is typically in November.

Scholarships

Full scholarships are available for exceptionally qualified candidates who have been accepted for study at GRIPS. These scholarships are provided by the Japanese government (Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology [MEXT]) and international organizations, as well as GRIPS.

For details, please visit the Admissions Office's website at http://www.grips.ac.jp/en/admissions/index/

Students at GRIPS share the same time and space, studying together in the same classrooms, thinking together about—and debating—the same issues, and taking advantage of multiple opportunities for collaboration and networking, which often leads to lifelong friendships and connections.

Intellectual and Cultural Experiences

GRIPS is dedicated to providing broad intellectual and cultural experiences to students. During their studies, students have opportunities to participate in cultural events, field trips, sports activities, and homestay programs.
The GRIPS Summer Program features a variety of activities that focus on the enhancement of students' practical policy-making skills.

Our Faculty

GRIPS boasts a nearly 300-member faculty, which includes world-class academics and distinguished practitioners with many years of experience in public- or private-sector policy analysis and management. Our faculty's expertise spans a wide array of policy issues and areas of research, which allows us to offer a broad range of courses in policy-related fields.

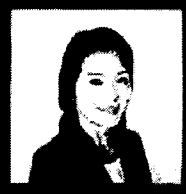

Center for Professional Communication

The mission of the Center for Professional Communication is to support GRIPS' students, faculty, and staff in developing effective professional communication skills and competencies needed to communicate productively in an environment of multiple stakeholders. To this end, we offer a range of instruction and support in fundamental areas of professional communication in English and Japanese including policy paper writing, professional speaking, grant proposal writing, and digital communications. We also provide opportunities for cultural and academic exchanges through a self-access learning center, organize seminars and special events related to all aspects of professional communication, and prepare customized materials for students and staff on academic and professional writing and language learning.

Student Support

We understand the challenges international students face when adjusting to a new culture and environment. Accordingly, the Student Office provides substantial administrative assistance to international students so that they can focus on accomplishing their academic goals at GRIPS. The Student Office assists with a variety of matters such as accommodation arrangements, immigration procedures, and international cultural exchanges. International students will be assigned to off-campus accommodations in the Tokyo metropolitan area based on their requests. At GRIPS, the Health Services Center provides medical and psychological counseling services to all students.

"The most important thing for me is that I could learn—often first-hand from my fellow students—about current global issues and international efforts that are going on in the world. GRIPS gave me precious friends and opened my eyes to the world."

(Alumni, Ayako Tamiya, Japan; International Development Studies Program, 2010)

"GRIPS is principally about multidisciplinary and practical approaches to the study of policy and economics. It is also about the need to better understand the political economy of Japan and Asia, as a whole, from a global public policy perspective. For me, as a student from Africa, this was very useful. Staff at GRIPS are available 24/7, and of course, the multicultural and professional network at GRIPS propels one to become a truly global citizen."

(Alumni, Tenywa Edward, Uganda; One-year Master's Program of Public Policy, 2012)

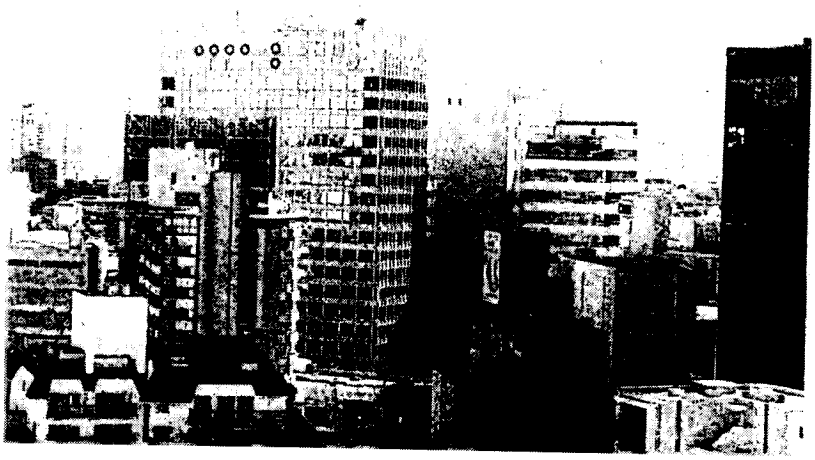

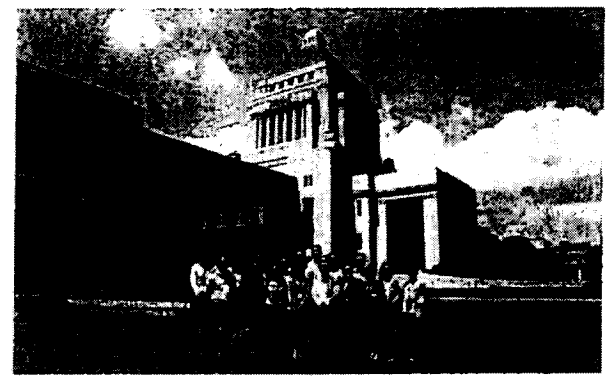

Campus and City

GRIPS is located in Roppongi, which is a cosmopolitan, multicultural, and bustling area of Tokyo. Roppongi boasts several large shopping and dining complexes and numerous individual restaurants, art museums, performance venues, and shops. Additionally, Roppongi is close to the Japanese Diet and government ministries.

GRIPS is situated on an innovatively designed campus located next to the National Art Center. The graduate school building features spacious, fully equipped classrooms, individual study spaces for students, a sky-lit atrium with panoramic windows and indoor terraces, Japanese-style rooms, a modern fitness center, and a beautiful multi-purpose conference hall.

Tailor-Made Short-Term Training

The Executive Development Center for Global Leadership (CGL) was established in 2013 in response to an increasing demand for short-term training for government officials, particularly for senior executives, middle management level officials and public policy professionals.

GRIPS has responded to specific requests from foreign government organizations by providing tailor-made short-term training programs matched to specific requests and necessity. By establishing CGL, GRIPS can provide various kinds of short-term training programs more proactively and systematically.

Examples of Short-Term Training Program Topics:

- Leadership Development and Management in the 21st Century
- Public Management in General
- Structures and Processes of Government
- Organizational Management
- Civil Service Systems and Human Resource Management
- Tools of Government
- Legal Systems and Legislative Review
- Administrative Reform and Innovation
- Good Governance
- Trust in the Government
- Ethics and Anti-Corruption
- Local Governance in General
- Local Government Administration
- Local Government Financial Administration
- Management of Inter-Governmental Relations
- Public Policy Analysis
- Specific Substantive Policies

In response to specific demands, short-term training programs often contain a mixture of the following components:

- Lectures delivered by government officials, business executives, specialists from research institutions, and professors from GRIPS and other universities
- Field trips or visits to government offices and other places of interests related to themes of training
- Group discussions and workshops with government officials and GRIPS students
- Participants' presentations and policy papers
- Exchanges with people from Japan

For details, please visit the CGL's website at
